CHARGES EFFORT TO STIFLE PROBE

Heflin Sees an Attempt to Intimidate Congress.

EVIDENCE REPORTED MISSING

Record Alleged to Have Been Taken From the Office of a Senator—Important Witnesses in Oil Probe to Be Interrogated This Week—McLean, Wood and Means to Be Summoned, According to Plans.

Washington, March 11.—The senate committee investigating the naval oil reserve leases plans to call important witnesses this week.

According to plans, Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, will be summoned and asked about his connections with the white house, Attorney General Daugherty, former Secretary of the Interior Fall and other high officials. He will also be asked what he knows of the reported million dollar "slush fund" and stock speculations of government officials, committee members say.

Leonard Wood, Jr., and Jake Hamon, Jr., will be interrogated as to what they know about a reported attempt to barter for the presidency at the last Republican convention with the post of secretary of the interior as the price.

Gaston B. Means, former justice department agent, who is reported to have made an early investigation into the scandal long before it was unearthed by the committee, will be called to the stand this week. He will also be asked concerning a trip to Florida he is supposed to have made to acquaint McLean with some of his information.

According to reports current here, records relating to evidence in the naval oil scandal were taken from the office of a senator. One of the witnesses scheduled to testify before the investigating committee this week will be asked if he knows anything about the disappearance. The papers are supposed to have disappeared just before the investigation got under way four months ago.

Senator Heflin (Dem., Ala.) declared on the floor of the senate that secret and corrupt forces are attempting to intimidate congress and stifle the investigation. "Certain subsidized newspapers are trying to destroy and discredit every senator who has earnestly and fearlessly gone into this thing with the view of exposing this hideous national crime and punishing the criminals responsible for it," Heflin said.

The senator again called upon President Coolidge to make a statement concerning reports that he is "the principal" mentioned in the Edward B. McLean messages.

E. L. Doheny, lessee of naval reserve land, branded as "absolutely and unqualifiedly false," charges that he may have been implicated in furthering a revolution in Mexico against General Obregon. At the same time Doheny revealed that he had loaned the Obregon government $5,000,000 "which enabled it to put down the revolution."

Doheny's statement came in the form of an answer to Senator Wheeler, Montana, who has delivered speeches in the senate implicating Doheny and other oil magnates in questionable practices. "Senator Wheeler's statement," said Doheny, "is just as false as his previous statement of Feb. 19, that Messrs. Sinclair, McLean and I had had meetings in the apartment of Attorney General Daugherty."

HERE AND THERE

Clarence R. Disharoon shot his wife, Alice Ruth Disharoon, twice and then shot and killed himself, at their home in Baltimore. The woman died an hour later.

State Senator William S. Youngman denied in the Massachusetts senate that he had slandered Bernard M. Baruch, the New York financier, as the latter alleged in a letter last week.

Mrs. Aaron Collins, 52, Monticello, Ind., has confessed, county officials say, that she placed poison in cornbread which she served to her husband, who died last week.

Edward Smith, 23, was arrested at Pittsburgh by a Chicago detective, who reported that the man was wanted in Chicago in connection with three murders and a number of hold-ups.

William D. Laumaster, a widely known Presbyterian evangelist, died at his home in Philadelphia.

NUMBERS ANNOUNCED

Auto License Tags Duplicated at Ohio Penitentiary.

Columbus, March 11.—Secretary of State Brown made public the numbers of the auto license tags that have been duplicated at the Ohio penitentiary. He has written to all police chiefs and sheriffs in the state asking that they watch for these tags. Three of the duplicates probably went to Columbus, according to the secretary of state. Their numbers are 1825, 383,935 and 478,531. Tag No. 331,700 went either to Celina, Lima or Toledo and tag No. 898,569 went to Cleveland, Mr. Brown believes. Two tags, Nos. 921,167 and 921,107, probably went to South Bend, Ind.

The duplication of the auto license tags was made by prisoners at the penitentiary, who smuggled them out through the prison in some manner. Warden Thomas had tried for several weeks to catch the persons to whom the plates were being mailed.

SCHOOL INTERESTS URGING SESSION

Reconvening Committee of Legislature May Take Action.

Columbus, March 11.—J. E. Cross, clerk of the state senate, stated that definite action by the reconvening committee appointed by the general assembly last April when it recessed, with a view to a possible special session of that body, is expected within a day or so.

Mr. Cross said sentiment among school interests throughout the state has become so strong within the last 48 hours that "we can disregard it no longer."

Pleas from different interests in 62 of the 88 counties in Ohio have been made to the reconvening committee. "Letters and telegrams from Cleveland to the Ohio river reached this office, all bearing the same appeal for some legislative relief for the schools," said Mr. Cross. "These same appeals are reaching every other member of the committee," he added.

Mr. Cross pointed out that it would take the vote of but three members of the committee to bring the legislature back into session. The committee consists of Captain J. P. Maynard, clerk of the house; Representative Robert C. Dunn, Bowling Green, speaker pro tem of the house; Representative Harry D. Silver of Eaton, chairman of the house finance committee; Senator George E. Kryder, McClure, president pro tem of the senate; Senator J. F. Atwood, chairman of the senate finance committee, and Mr. Cross.

FINED $5,000

Clarke, One of Founders of Klan, Pleads Guilty in Court.

Houston, Tex., March 11.—Edward Young Clarke, one of the founders of the Ku Klux Klan, pleaded guilty to violation of the Mann white slave act in federal district court here. Clarke was fined $5,000. No prison sentence was imposed by the court. He admitted transporting Mrs. Laura Martin, 21, of Houston to New Orleans. At one time Clarke was acting imperial wizard of the Klan, but recently had allied himself with the William Joseph Simmons faction in fighting the present administration of the hooded order.

ACTION ON TAX RATES DEFERRED

Smoot to Seek the Views of Secretary Mellon.

AGREEMENT ON REVENUE BILL

Senate Finance Committee First to Complete Administrative Sections of the Measure—Soldier Bonus Bill Being Whipped Into Shape—Government Controlled Superpower System Proposed.

Washington, March 11.—Administrative sections of the revenue bill are to be completed by the senate finance committee before the tax rates are acted upon. An agreement to this effect has been reached by the committee.

Senator Smoot (Rep., Utah), chairman of the committee, announced that before the various schedules are taken up he will ask Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to present his views and estimate the amount of revenue which must be raised. Mr. Smoot has said that $100,000,000 more than provided by the bill as passed by the house will be needed.

The provision for a 25 per cent reduction in 1923 personal income taxes payable this year is under consideration, the house having refused to remove this section from the bill and place it in a separate resolution for immediate action.

An amendment was approved limiting to six years the period in which the government may initiate court proceedings to collect tax assessments.

The soldier bonus bill is in the hands of a subcommittee of the house ways and means committee for the finishing touches. With a report of the measure to the house by tomorrow in prospect, Chairman Green has announced he will seek a special rule in making it immediately in order.

The form of the paid-up life insurance policy provision, the basis of the new measure, was taken up by the subcommittee. Several proposals for such a provision have been presented, including that of Representative Bacharach (Rep., N. J.), for 30-year endowment policies, payable at the age of 62, but the method of figuring the values of the policy has not been determined.

Senator George W. Norris (Rep., Neb.) and Representative Keller (Rep., Minn.) are joint authors of a bill linking up Muscle Shoals, Boulder canyon and the Colorado river as the nucleus of a great government controlled superpower system to produce electricity, fertilizer and nitrate.

It was explained the purpose of the bill is to conserve and use for the public benefit the great natural resources and a nonpolitical public service commission to co-operate with state and local bodies would be created to further the development of the project. A bond issue of $500,000,000 as a revolving fund to carry on the initial operations would be authorized.

Representative Keller, in a statement accompanying the bill, said there were 2,318 municipally owned electric power plants in the United States which would fit in as units of the system.

TO HALT FRANC'S DECLINE

Drastic Measures Discussed by the French Government.

Paris, March 11.—The council of the cabinet met in the Quai d'Orsay to discuss drastic measures to halt the decline of the franc.

The council also took up the procedure the government will follow in the face of the defiance of the commission of finance of the senate which Saturday refused to report on these sections of the government financial program, as adopted by the chamber of deputies, granting Premier Poincaré the right to effect economies of one billion francs a year by governmental decree.

Rumors were current in financial circles that the Bank of France may intervene in the market to strengthen the franc.

Candler Wins Suit.

Atlanta, Ga., March 11.—Mrs. Claude Byfield lost her attempt to obtain $100,000 damages from Walter T. Candler, son of the millionaire Coca Cola manufacturer, for an alleged attack on board a ship. A jury, after deliberating two days denied Mrs. Byfield's claim for damages and found for the defendant, who charged the suit was the result of a blackmail plot.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Schools to Participate.

Columbus, March 11.—Thirty-five school systems from as many Ohio cities will send experts to participate in the program of the fourth annual educational conference to be conducted April 3-5 on the campus of Ohio State university by the college of education. Fifteen universities will be represented by speakers and in all 129 school experts are scheduled for the speaking program. Programs of the general sectional meetings will center around "Standards in Education," announced as the keynote of the conference.

Boys and Girls Accused.

Toledo, March 11.—Twenty-three boys and girls, ranging in age from 15 to 19 years, all were brought into juvenile court here. They are charged with breaking into buildings and malicious destruction of property, the result, according to the juvenile court officials, of booze parties at summer cottages at nearby resorts. Two cottages, it is said, were almost completely wrecked.

Forfeited Her Life.

Cleveland, March 11.—The body of Miss Grace Nourse, school teacher, who forfeited her life guarding her pupils, was taken to Washington for burial from the home of her mother. Miss Nourse died from heart disease caused when a sled, on which she was riding, crashed into a tree two weeks ago when she took some of her pupils coasting.

Ford to Double Track Road.

Lima, O., March 11.—It was announced here that extension of double-tracking and electrification of Henry Ford's railroad, the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, from the end of the present double trackage south and east of River Rouge, Mich., to Lima, is definitely planned for completion within the next 18 months.

Teacher a Suicide.

Cincinnati, March 11.—Miss Lula Landfried, 44, teacher in the public schools here, ended her life by swallowing poison. Coroner D. C. Handlow said he was informed that Miss Landfried attempted to kill herself several days ago, but was prevented from doing so by a relative.

Three Men Overcome.

Cincinnati, March 11.—Three men were overcome by carbon monoxide gas while they were working in a garage here. Morris Ruffley, 46; John Schwaneeke, 23, and Louis Koester, 20, the victims, were revived by the fire department life saving squad.

Laundrymen Meet.

Springfield, O., March 11.—W. L. Stonebarger of Dayton was elected president of the Ohio Laundry Owners' association here. Cincinnati was chosen as the association's 1925 convention city.

Safe Cracked.

Akron, O., March 11.—Safe crackers, who broke into the office of the Cleveland-Akron Bus company here, escaped with between $800 and $900.

Prisoner Missing.

Columbus, March 11.—Harry Rodrick, 41, a prisoner at the London prison farm, is missing. He was received at the penitentiary Nov. 7, 1923, from Montgomery county and was serving a sentence of from one to five years for illegal manufacture of liquor.

Killed by Train.

Oak Harbor, O., March 11.—William Emthorpe, 46, was killed here by a freight train.

URGES CITIZENS TO AID OFFICERS

Donahey Warns Local Authorities to Enforce Dry Laws.

WILL BE HELD RESPONSIBLE

Discharge of State "Card" Deputies Has So Reduced the State Prohibition Department's Forces, the Governor Says, That They Will Be Able to Make Comparatively Few Arrests—Essence of Proclamation.

Columbus, March 11.—City, village and county officials throughout Ohio are warned in a proclamation issued by Governor Donahey that they are to be held responsible for enforcement of prohibition laws in their communities.

Issuance of the proclamation is a direct result of Attorney General Crabbe's outlawing of state "card" prohibition agents, who heretofore have been operating throughout the state in conjunction with local liquor courts. "I do not want to make a police court out of the governor's office, but, when occasion demands, I shall not shrink the duty devolving upon me under the prohibition enforcement law," the governor declared, warning that officials who fail to enforce the law will be subject to removal from office.

Discharge of the state "card" officers in compliance with Crabbe's ruling that they were appointed illegally has so reduced the state prohibition department's working force, the governor said, that they will be able to make comparatively few arrests themselves. The proclamation says: "It becomes necessary in this emergency to ask for more vigorous and concentrated effort in prohibition enforcement on the part of local officials—mayors, sheriffs, prosecutors and police officers. I have this day instructed the state prohibition commission to have his department devote itself largely to co-operating with and assisting these local officials."

"The state department will expect the fullest co-operation from local authorities and where public officials will not give such assistance wholeheartedly, whether it be in the largest city or smallest village, state inspectors will report the facts to the prohibition commissioner. If, after personal investigation, the commissioner finds such charges warrant further action, it will be his duty to file them with the governor and recommend removal proceedings."

The governor also called upon private citizens throughout the state to aid in prohibition enforcement. "They are stockholders in the community in which they reside," he said, "and whenever they are aware of violations they should report them to the proper authority. The citizen who is blind in the eye next to law violation is a misfit in our system of government."

FALL ACCUSED

Alleged With Others to Have Made Offer to Late Pancho Villa.

El Paso, Tex., March 11.—Charles F. Hunt, in an interview published by a local newspaper, charged that in 1917, Albert B. Fall, then United States senator, and several American mining men, sought a conference with the late Pancho Villa to arrange for a "stable government" in northern Mexico. Hunt, formerly Fall's associate in Mexican land deals, is quoted as saying he wrote a letter to Villa in behalf of Fall and 11 American mining companies offering the famous Mexican rebel $50,000 annually for protection of their properties in Mexico. Villa was to be aided in establishing a republic of his own in northern Mexico, Hunt said.

Woman Run Down.

Cleveland, March 11.—A motogist giving his name as Gayle Trigg is held here, charged with careless driving. Witnesses told police Trigg ran down Miss Elizabeth Beteg, 19, as she attempted to board a streetcar and fled. Trigg was caught when he sidwiped another car. Miss Beteg received a possible skull fracture.

Congressman Arrested.

Washington, March 11.—Representative Harold Knutson of Minnesota is held in the Arlington county (Va.) jail on a serious charge, following his arrest in a parked automobile on a busy Virginia road. Held with Knutson is L. M. Hull, a Washington man. The offense with which Knutson and Hull are charged carries a prison term of one to three years.

ADVISES COOLIDGE

Doheny to Continue Construction Work on Fuel Station.

Washington, March 11.—Through his attorney here, E. L. Doheny advised President Coolidge that construction work on Naval Fuel station No. 2, at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, will continue despite the refusal of the government to make further payments. The oil magnate said he had personally guaranteed his companies against loss for pursuing the work.

The peculiar nature of the construction, now 70 per cent complete, would make for a total loss if it were abandoned during the pendency of litigation between the government and oil companies, it has been estimated. Fuel station No. 1 has been completed.

The United States district court at Los Angeles will be asked to impound the royalty oil revenue from naval reserve No. 1 during the process of litigation under an agreement arrived at by counsel for the government and Doheny, who also agreed that court be asked to appoint a receiver for the magnate's properties in reserve No. 1, while the suits are pending. A naval officer of high rank, acceptable to both sides, will be named receiver.

Books Unfit to Read.

Atlantic City, N. J., March 11.—Scores of books being published in the hundreds of thousands are not fit for young girls to read, Deets Pickett of Washington, D. C., research secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist church, declared in an address before a mass meeting of the New Jersey Methodist conference here.

COURT DISMISSES CASE

Points Out Gasoline Dealers Have Other Means of Redress.

Youngstown, O., March 11.—Judge Gessner dismissed the alternate writ of mandamus he issued last week to independent gasoline dealers, directing the mayor and police chief to enforce the Ohio Sunday closing law. The court held that the petitioners have adequate remedy at law for the discrimination which they allege in being closed on Sunday while theaters and confectioneries are permitted to operate. The court, in sustaining a demurrer filed by the city, held that it is mandatory upon the mayor to enforce all laws without discrimination. The opinion added, however, that it was not the business of the court to direct the city government in administering the laws. If the petitioners believe they are discriminated against, the court continued, they have means of redress by filing charges against the mayor for maladministration, under the statutes providing for removal of mayors convicted of such charges.

Orders Show Increase.

New York, March 11.—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation on Feb. 29 totaled 4,912,901 tons, an increase of 114,472 tons, as compared with the end of the previous month.

Delicate Gown Made for Empress Eugenie

It is said that the most perishable thing ever made was the gown of Empress Eugenie designed for her to wear at a ball given at the Tuilleries upon her return from the opening of the Suez canal.

The ultimate in dress was made under the personal direction of the empress. Four women labored steadily for six months embroidering the flounces. It took two months to manufacture the gauze. The cloth was woven on machinery especially constructed and was the only kind of this material ever fashioned. The threads were so fine that the weavers were obliged to wear powerful magnifying glasses.

The dress was an ivory white. It was made with 15 skirts one upon the other. Thirty-five yards of gauze were required for each and the effect was a diaphanous mist. A thousand yards of material was used, 237 yards being required for each of the two overskirts. The flounces resembled cobwebs, and delicate embroidery marked the low-cut waist. So fine was the material that the two overskirts could be drawn through a bracelet, and two of the underskirts through a finger ring.—Detroit News.

Keene Won and Lost Millions of Dollars

It is to be questioned whether his tying up with Jay Gould or the $400,000 he wagered that William Jennings Bryan would be elected in 1896 was James R. Keene's greatest error of judgment. To his then associate, Gould, Keene attributed his losses in Western Union and wheat in the late '70s.

For all of his speculations over 50 years, Keene, when he died, in 1913, left but $2,000,000, and he scored more failures in his operations than successes. After his experience with Jay Gould, other reverses followed and Keene was a bankrupt in 1884. By 1892 he was on his feet again, through his manipulations for the whisky combination and American Sugar Refining company.

Later in the same decade, he won and lost and won again on Brooklyn Rapid Transit, only to drop $2,000,000 in Third avenue railway speculations. At the time of the flotation of United States steel he hit the ceiling, only to fall to the floor shortly after with the collapse of Southern Pacific.—New York Times.

Home of Pineapple

The pineapple is of American origin, growing wild in Brazil and Mexico. It has been known since the Sixteenth century and was first cultivated solely for royalty in the gardens of their private grounds. Brazil still possesses the best and most appreciated varieties, although in other countries much work has been done to develop a better pineapple.

It is claimed that the flavor and evenness of pulp of the Brazilian pineapples have not been equaled. The season in Brazil comes in December and it has been a source of wonder to tourists arriving in Brazil during the pineapple season why some one has not undertaken to make shipments to the United States, where there should be a splendid market for them, arriving in midwinter.

Mary Lost Her Tip

A newly appointed judge of the Supreme court, who felt pretty well satisfied with himself, was dining at a hotel and he said to the Irish waitress, "Mary, how long have you been in this country?"

"Two years, sir."
"Do you like it?"
"Sure, it's well enough," she answered.

"But, Mary," he continued, "you have many privileges in this country which you'd not have in Ireland. Now at home you'd never be in a room with a justice of the Supreme court and chatting familiarly with him."

"But, sure, sir," said the girl, quite in earnest, "ye'd never be a judge at home."—Boston Transcript.

Had Forgotten

A Hot Springs girl recently ran across a lot of love letters written many years ago, by her mother to her father before they were married. The daughter pretended that the letters were of recent date, and read them to her mother, who was disgusted beyond measure, saying it was surprising that such silly persons were permitted to live. "I thank goodness," she said, "that when I was a girl, I had some sense."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Both Wrong

Two travelers were seated in a train going to Chicago. As the train drew up at a station one of the travelers opened the window, and, drawing a deep draught of fresh air, turned to his companion and exclaimed:

"Isn't this salubrious?"
"Yes," replied his friend, "I think it is exhilarating."

"Beg pardon," chimed in the conductor, "ye're both wrong; it's Kalamazoo."

Kittenish

"Those firemen must be a frivolous set," commented Mrs. Dumpling.

"Why?" asked her overworked half.
"I read in the paper that after the blaze was under control, firemen played all night on the ruins. Why didn't they go to bed like sensible folks instead of romping around like cats?"

The Third Heaven.
According to an ancient Jewish opinion there were three heavens: (1) that wherein the birds fly, (2) that wherein the stars move; (3) that where the Highest and His angels live. In II Corinthians St. Paul's reference is to the heaven of heavens, the place of God's ruling over angels and all powers, as distinct from Paradise where the souls of the faithful dead abide, to which blest place he was raptured, also, as he says in the same passage.

Claimed the Purse.
Guests having been there, the children were up later than usual and unduly excited. Auntie couldn't make them go to sleep; she had heard their prayers, told them stories, and they were wider awake than ever. "The first one of you to go to sleep shall have an orange," she finally said. Dead silence followed. Presently Tottie called: "Auntie, dive me my orange; I is the first one asleep. Me dest woke up again."

Attractive Entrance to Farm Important
Should Furnish Easy Access to House and Barn.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The entrance to the farmstead from the public road is one of the most important details of the plan and one of the most difficult to treat successfully without underemphasizing it or overdoing it. It should be so located as to facilitate direct and easy access to both house and barn and make the approach to either seem natural and easy, while at the same time appearing to lead primarily to the house. On the other hand, it should not be directly opposite the front door of the house, so that on entering one appears to be going straight into the house. The entrance should largely reflect and suggest the character of the farmstead. In the opinion of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Costume Blouses in Satin and Georgette

Not one stroke behind the designers of tunic dresses are the creators of blouses. If a tunic dress is good there are times when a tunic blouse may be better, according to their philosophy. They put them forth under the name of costume blouses if the blouse be long enough to warrant it, or as overblouses if the peplum part is a little shorter. In either case the design is apt to be rather elaborate in beading or other trimming, although seldom so in cut. Frocks are more elaborate in the cut of the skirt or its drapery than in the waist, and this leaves the blouses in the same relative position. The cut therefore remains simple, but colors and elaboration are unlimited.

The lingerie blouse comes back into use with certain changes and the crepe de chine blouse continues as one of the most useful adjuncts in the wardrobe. The tailored blouse is a thing in itself separate and of an entirely different order. For the semi-tailored type of blouse there are some interesting models made of printed crepes and novelty materials trimmed with suede collar and cuffs, a very good blouse to wear with the tailored suit for town.

In these blouses that are neither costume nor sports blouses one also will find the blouse with the deep jabot ruffle which trims a suit and adds so much to the effect, particularly now that the director styles are again being put forth. Lattice-work trimming in the same fabric is a form to which many makers are partial for crepe models.

An unusual blouse of crepe is original in its use of false pockets for elaboration. A light tone silk faces triangular flaps which open as if a pocket were placed between. One of these pocket arrangements is placed either side of the waist and on one side a slash extends to the bottom of the blouse with tiny buttons holding the hip band snugly about the figure.

Farm Home With Pleasing Approach.

Some special treatment is necessary, however, to attract attention to it and set it apart from the rest of the boundary and to invite entrance.

The character of this special treatment must so nearly correspond with the rest of the treatment of the farmstead that it can be united with it without an abrupt change of style at any point. The transition from a heavy stone or brick post to a barbed-wire fence is difficult unless the size of the farmstead is such that there is sufficient distance to make the transition gradually. If the post is flanked by a wall of the same material that ultimately becomes the same height as the fence and the fence and wall are covered with vines for a considerable distance on each side of the joining, a successful transition can be accomplished. Such a stone wall, however, is inappropriate unless built of native stone in evidence in fences or buildings in the neighborhood or else is like the stone or brick clearly evident in the foundation or other portion of the buildings.

Two Popular Poisons to Destroy Garden Insects

Bear in mind that insect pests are divided into two classes: the biting or chewing insects, like the potato bug, that devour the leaves; and the sucking insects like squash bug and plant lice, that suck out the vital juices. Biting insects are killed by spraying the leaves of the plant with poison, but the sucking insects must be killed with contact poison, since they do not eat the poison on the leaves but suck the juice from within the leaves. Paris green and arsenate of lead are popular poisons for destroying the chewing insects, while kerosene emulsion and nicotine sulphate destroy the sucking insects. Arsenate of lead has an advantage over paris green in being less likely to burn tender young plants when applied too heavily and also in leaving a white coating on the plants after spraying to show which plants have not been reached. A sprayer should be used if one can be had, or for a small garden a sprinkler or an old broom will answer. Both bottom and top of leaves should be reached with the liquid.

Any Deep Fertile Soils
Are Suited for Alfalfa

The erroneous idea seems to prevail that bottom or creek land is essential to alfalfa. It is to be preferred, but not essential. Any of our deep fertile soils, including sandy loams, redbeds, black loams, chocolate, and black-waxy soils, are suited to this crop, but the land must be fertile. The soil should be well drained and sweet, as this crop will not grow in wet, sour soil. Such soils can usually be drained, then limed, and made suitable for almost any crop, including alfalfa. The black-waxy soils are often deficient in lime and, where this is the case, it should be limed and can be, at a reasonable cost. The amount of rainfall and the length of growing season will govern the acre yield, but a fair average will be about two, or possibly two and one-half, tons depending somewhat on the fertility of the soil.

Machinery Saves Labor

The chief value of modern farm machinery is in saving labor and in doing a superior job of work. When an implement becomes afflicted with the ailments of old age, it becomes a time waster instead of a time saver. Instead of doing its work well and so adding to the yield, it does it poorly and adds to the expense.

Knitted Wool Frocks and Scarfs Popular

A very likable one-piece frock is of domestic design in knitted wool. The skirt is woven to resemble plaits and is plain white. The blouse part is in a fine check, various colors being used with the rolling revers in white brushed wool. The fronts of the blouse are lapped widely over so that they stay in place at all times and no buttons or fastenings are necessary. Sleeves in this model are long with a tiny roll cuff of the brushed wool completing a very useful and chic dress for morning wear or a walk on the beach.

With a continued influx of models for all times of the day showing the scarf in many forms it is to be expected that the use of scarfs for sports wear would continue; also, whether the scarf be part of the sweater or blouse or otherwise. Sports coats are almost sure to use the scarf arrangement of collar thrown over one shoulder. Scarfs worn independently are of many designs and are seen in short length, used as an Ascot, or in very long ones, even with a ruffle at the bottom. Scarfs of silk have plaited ruffles. By silk, foulard or some other flat silk is meant in which plaiting may be practical, or they may be finished with fringe or scallops.

An exceedingly novel scarf from Paris is of Scotch plaid gingham of red and blue, finished with a fringe of the material. It is very wide to make up for the light weight, and, of course, this applies also to the scarfs of thin silks.

Bags for Evening

Cloth of silver envelope bags are an excellent choice for evening wear, as they are sure to blend with any color scheme. They come in various shades and sizes.

PLATTSBURG

Republican Women to be Trained for Service in Political Campaign.

Republican women in Pickaway county are invited to join the first training camp in the middle east for women to prepare for the 1924 campaign to be held at the Deshler hotel in Columbus March 18, 19 and 20.

This Republican political Plattsburg designed to help Republican women to qualify as capable leaders in the coming national and state campaigns will be held under the auspices of Mrs. John Gordon Battelle, associate member of the National Republican committee for Ohio, and one of the best known women Republican leaders in the state and country, in conjunction with Mrs. C. C. Pavey, twelfth congressional district chairman of Ohio, and Mrs. J. F. Atwood, Franklin county, chairman.

It is pointed out by Mrs. Battelle that citizens who volunteer for the service of their country undertake training which later will fit them to be leaders in patriotic service. This is the idea which actuates the Women's Plattsburg, she said.

The training will start Tuesday morning, March 18, at 10 o'clock and three sessions will be held each day. Instruction will be given in the fundamental principles of the Republican party, the fundamentals of the constitution and in public speaking under leadership of competent instructors. No fee will be asked and prospective trainees are urged to enroll promptly as there will be accommodations for only 200.

Mrs. Battelle will entertain the women in training at luncheon in the Deshler ball room March 19, at 12:30.

Mask Guards Painter

From Lead Poisoning

Lead poisoning has long been the bane of painters. While working with paint having a high lead content the inhalation of the paint odors has been known to produce dangerous attacks of the well-known "painter's colic," while contact of lead paint with the skin, particularly where it is cut or abraded, often results in irritating diseases.

To combat these conditions a special gas mask or respirator has been devised. This is not so cumbersome as the conventional type, merely serving as a filter against the lead fumes and not covering the whole face. It straps around the back of the head, covering the nose and mouth, but not the eyes, thus affording free vision.

Worn in combination with rubber gloves for protecting the hands, the new respirator affords ample protection against the possibility of contracting disease, no matter what may be the lead content of the paint used.—New York World.

Human Decoy Used to Lure Wolf in Russia

The Russian hunter's method of killing wolves is interesting. A great hefty peasant, with yellow hair, snub nose, red face and shining blue eyes, brought an immense wolf's skin to me once, and I asked him how he had obtained it. He was standing at the window of his izba one late afternoon he said, when he saw a wolf walking through the village street. He seized his gun, called a friend, and they went in pursuit. The wolf stopped on the top of a hill outside the village and looked at them. To prevent it from running away, the second man went down on all fours and moved toward the wolf. He looked, in his heavy sheepskin shuba, for all the world like an animal, and the wolf ran back to attack him. When it had come to a convenient distance the hunter shot it.—Francesca M. Wilson, in Manchester Guardian.

Strange, Strange!

This is veracious: A clergyman from Cambridge, Mass., had occasion to preach to the inmates of an insane hospital. During his sermon he noticed that one of the patients paid the closest attention, his eyes riveted upon the preacher's face, his body bent eagerly forward. Such interest was most flattering. After the service, the speaker noticed that the man spoke to the superintendent, so as soon as possible the preacher inquired:

"Didn't that man speak to you about my sermon?"

"Yes."

"Would you mind telling me what he said?"

The superintendent tried to sidestep, but the preacher insisted.

"Well," he said at last, "what the man said was, 'Just think, he's out and I'm in.'"—The Christian Register (Boston).

Runs Submerged

An inexpensive undershot power wheel which will run even when wholly submerged and which is especially adapted for use in mountain streams was invented some time ago by a Salt Lake man. The wheel's source of power lies in the fact that the blades fold on the upward stroke, making the leverage greater at all times on those below than above the center shaft and thereby enabling it to run in water of any depth. The wheel, which is made entirely of metal, may be of any diameter and width.

To prevent clogging with floating weeds or debris the wheel is inclosed in a heavy mesh wire screen so connected to the wheel that it revolves in the opposite direction.

Set an Egg—Ample

A boastful traveler was in the village inn, trying to "kid the Hicks."

"Speaking of chickens," he said, "reminds me of an old hen my father used to have on his farm. She'd hatch anything from a tennis ball to a lemon. Why, one day she sat on a chunk of ice and hatched out a pint of hot water!"

"That don't come up to a hen my mother had," remarked one of his hearers. "They fed her on sawdust once, by mistake. Well, she laid ten eggs, and sat on 'em, and when they were hatched, nine of them had wooden legs, and 'tother chicken was a woodpecker!"—American Boy.

Diffused Concentration

An enthusiastic young admirer said to Arnold Bennett shortly after one of his more thoughtful books was published: "You have been a wonderful help to me, Mr. Bennett."

"Indeed! In what way, may I ask?"

"Oh, that last book of yours! It has taught me to concentrate."

"To concentrate? Well, well, that's nice. Now tell me, what are you concentrating on?"

"Oh, lots and lots of things," was the reply.—Boston Transcript.

Now We Know

Uncle Lije Cheek one day was asked whether Sam Black was honest or not.

"Well, if, and, but, though," he answered, "he might be, and, then again he mightn't; but, if he be, he is a rightly spoken ag'inst."

ARMORED FORDS

General Smedley Butler Has Them Equipped for Chasing Bandits.

Armored Ford cars as bandit chasers are latest police innovations. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, Philadelphia's dynamic commissioner of public safety, is the man who introduced them.

Before he took office a few weeks back, the Philadelphia city council voted General Butler $5000 with which to purchase an automobile for his personal use.

But when salesman for high priced cars appeared and tried to interest him, he made it plain that he intended to spend the money in purchasing small, light cars for use as bandit chasers by the police department.

The Ford runabout was his choice and it wasn't long before an enterprising Ford salesman had a car ready for the general's inspection.

Now the Philadelphia police have six of these armored Ford cars and under General Butler's plan this number will shortly be augmented until there will be ninety such bandit chasers in service.

The entire shell of the body is lined with one-eighth inch special steel and the space between the armor plating and the outside of the car is packed with loose cotton and coarse hair to retard the velocity of bullets. Armor plate also covers the cowl and runs up as high as the lower portion of the windshield. The upper portion is in two sections of bullet proof glass and wind-wings have been provided on either side, these also of bullet glass.

The Ford engines are specially equipped to afford increased speed and tests made to show some interesting results. In one test to show acceleration and power developed for hill climbing, a mile was covered in one minute and thirty-one seconds from a standing start. On a country road the car attained a speed of more than sixty miles an hour and in a city street test covered 2,828 feet at a speed of approximately 70 miles an hour.

Ford cars have been in use by police departments all over the country for years and recently there has been a rapidly increasing tendency in the larger cities to use them in place of motorcycles since they are less conspicuous and afford greater protection and comfort. Portland, Oregon, is one of the latest cities to adopt the Ford cars to replace motorcycles and now has twenty-three of them in operation. Cleveland Heights, Ohio, and Cincinnati are other cities which have recently joined the Ford ranks, the armored Ford as used in Philadelphia, however, is General Butler's idea.

GIVEN 20 YEARS EACH

Benham and Harrison Sentenced to Leavenworth Prison.

Columbus, March 11.—William G. Benham and Dwight Harrison, president and vice president, respectively, of the R. L. Dollings company of Ohio, were sentenced to serve 20 years each in federal penitentiary at Leavenworth Kan., and assessed a fine of $5,000 and costs each by Judge Sater in federal court. The 11 counts of the indictment for use of the mails to defraud, upon which the Dollings officials were found guilty last Thursday after a seven weeks' trial, were so used by Judge Sater that the entire 20-year sentence must be served. Benham and Harrison were granted a 60-day stay of execution and were released on bond of $40,000 each. Defense attorneys declared their intention to file in the circuit court of appeals within the 60-day period.

Two Caught In Crash.

Cleveland, March 11.—Fred R. Grosser, 34, was killed and Clarence C. Starke, both of Cleveland, was seriously injured when a small coupe in which they were riding collided head-on with an interurban streetcar in Painesville.

Reckless Driver Sentenced.

Cleveland, March 11.—Peter Wagner, dry agent in Brooklyn Heights, found guilty by a jury for driving an automobile while intoxicated, was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to three months in the workhouse.

Charged With Murder.

New Lexington, O., March 11.—Thomas Smith of San Toy went on trial here on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Edward Brandigan last August. Smith is alleged to have shot at Mrs. Brandigan's husband, missing him and killing her instantly.

Slugged and Robbed.

Bellaire, O., March 11.—Charles Golach, 63, of Brooks Run, west of here, was attacked by two gunmen, who, impersonating officers, entered his home. The intruders fled with $5, after striking Golach over the head with a blackjack and overpowering his wife.

Muslim Religious Intolerance. Nothing is more hateful to a Muslim than to see the Koran in the hands of an unbeliever.

Pidgin English Used by Natives of Guam

Pidgin-English would sound funny to one who had never roamed the wilds of Guam. I was attached to the radio station there for nearly two years, and this is exactly the way the natives used to talk to us, and we to them. There's a peculiarity of inflection, sort of a singsong jump and flop to the Guam native's conversation that's difficult to describe. He sings you a song when he talks to you. This, I suppose, is owing to the narrow limitations of their own language. Their entire vocabulary comprising not more than 400 words, they have to make one word do the work of many, depending more on tone of voice than pronunciation.

For instance, the word affa. It means anything they make it mean. You see a native woman coming along, leading a child by the hand. The kid's a little slow on the lead, its attention on a goat, pig, chicken just passed, thus causing the old lady much irritation. She turns in her wrath, with her bare foot gives the kid a side swipe on the rump and snarls—

"Affa!"

Two minutes later the same woman meets a friend. She smiles sweetly, bows sedately and softly murmurs: "Affa."

It's all in the tune.—By Charles Victor Fischer, in Adventure Magazine.

How Missouri Became the "Show Me" State

There have been many explanations as to the origin of the expression, "I'm from Missouri, you've got to show me." One often advanced is that the marriage laws of Missouri in the early days were so loose that anyone could get married without answering many questions.

In 1881 a law was passed making it a misdemeanor for a minister or a justice to marry persons not having a state license. It also set the age of marriageable women at eighteen. If the applicant for the license did not know the age of his bride-elect he was obliged to show her to the license clerk and let him judge her age.

When the applicant went after the girl she naturally asked why she had to go along to get the license. When told that the law required her exhibition, she remarked: "Oh, you've got to show me, have you?"

It was thus, according to some authorities, that Missouri became known as the "show me" state.—Detroit News.

First Phonograph

History mentions talking machines as early as the Thirteenth century. In 1762 Rev. John Wesley states in his diary, he saw at Lurgan, Ireland, a clock with an automaton of an old man, which, every time the clock struck, opened the door with one hand, drew back the curtain with the other, turned his head and then said in a loud, articulate voice: "Past 1, 2, 3," and so on. The inventor, a man named Miller, told Wesley that he had made many successful experiments and could make a man who could talk and sing hymns, but he was too busy on other work. In 1783 Abbe Mical presented to the French Academy of Sciences an invention that talked, but he later broke it up, having religious scruples. In 1877 Edison brought out his first talking machine, which, by the way, was first displayed in Paris.

Love Is Blind

Viola will never go into a barber shop again. She says so herself. "My husband went into the barber shop next to our home and as I wanted him to go downtown with me I thought I'd step in and wait for him. There was a man in every chair and each of them had a towel over his face.

"Finally I spotted a pair of shoes and a silk shirt that I thought belonged to my husband, and while the barber turned away for a moment I went to the chair, took the hand of my suspected husband, squeezed it and said: 'Hello, dearie.'

"Imagine how I felt when a corner of the towel lifted and an amazed face I had never seen before stared at me blankly!"

Bank Director Who Directs

An aged darkey was renewing acquaintances in a section of the city where he had once resided.

"Well, Henry," said the drug store clerk, "what y' doing now?"

"Lawdy, man," replied Henry boastfully, "I've done got a magnificent position. I've a bank directah."

"You, the director of a bank?"

"Deed I is, boss. I jes' stan' dare an' when folks comes through de do, I directs 'em whah t' go."

So It Goes

"There are no great actors any more."

"I don't know," said the old-timer. "The fault may be largely vested in ourselves. In the old days actors used to yell and we registered emotion. Now they are repressed and so are we. We approve the repressed school and yet we say there are no great actors any more."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Non-Stop

The nervous passenger approached the captain timidly.

"What would happen, sir," she asked, "if we struck a large iceberg?"

"The iceberg would pass along as if nothing had happened," replied the captain.

And the old lady was very much relieved.

ANNA'S RIDE IN THE PIG CRATE

By ADDIE GRAVER

(©, 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

SAM had been playing the same ugly trick on her for quite a while. Sam was turning out like other husbands! they all sneaked off on illicit meanderings after they had been married a short while. Why, that very evening she had found in Sam's second-best coat pocket a letter reading:

"Dear Sam—Come over as soon as you can now. Everything is ready and we can fix things all up. The piece of woodland is all settled for and I carried the money to the bank this morning. I am all ready to fly the coop."

"JANETTE."

So! Janette's husband had been dead six months—she and Sam had renewed their friendship of former days and had made practical plans for an elopement! So that was what he had been up to!

Sam was putting that second-best suit on. He had told her he was going to take his father's pig crate and hay caps home. These articles he had loaded on the truck.

With a last woeful glance at the dismantled pantry, and the dismantled love nest of fulfilled dreams, Anna ran swiftly to the back of the truck and climbed in. Lifting the haycaps from the end of the pig crate, she crawled into it and drew the caps back into place just in time to escape Sam's observation.

"Evidently," she sensed, with a pang of angry hurt, "he didn't look for me."

Sam's father lived beyond Janette's farm, so Anna found herself free from discovery in her humiliating position. Sam stopped in front of Janette's, as Anna had felt sure he would. Through an uncovered crack in the side of the crate Anna saw Janette emerge from the house, make a few confidential remarks to Sam, and then lead him down the lane back of the house and on into the woods.

Anna crept out of the "pig sedan" and took the driver's seat. It was lucky she could run the truck, and still luckier there was another way home that passed no houses. The return of the truck could remain a mystery. If she felt any interest she did not show it when Sam returned.

He stood in puzzled irresolution for a moment, shifting from one foot to the other. Finally he blurted out his inquiry:

"Who brought the truck home?" Anna turned in perfectly registered astonishment. "Why—why—I thought you did!"

Sam dropped on the sugar bucket and voiced his bewilderment.

"No one saw it go by—it—must have come the other way. Someone has played a trick on me!"

"Well," replied Anna cheerfully, "you will have the pleasure of taking another trip"—adding to herself, "I wonder what he thinks I will think about the pig crate's still being in the truck."

Sam started and stared quizzically, then turned on his heel with the remark: "I'll go tomorrow and take you with me."

Dawn showed at last, and Anna rose and dressed. She was glad to get out into the cool morning air. Sam appeared, his face broad with relieved suspense. It was evident he was glad it was about over.

"Ambitious this morning, eh? In a hurry to get the work done to go along with me?"

Anna hurried along, leaving Sam to take his supposition for granted, and prepared an early breakfast. The tension still held.

"The peewees are making a fine racket this morning. They tell the world their love, all right."

Anna replied oddly: "Yes, but their season is short; they are fickle; they soon make a change."

Sam eyed Anna questioningly; Anna's suspicions were roused! But he soon forgot her aloofness while driving the truck at high speed. In almost no time he stopped it at Janette's door. To Anna's amazement, Sam took a key from his pocket, unlocked the door, grabbed her bodily from the seat and stood her up, like a child, on the hall floor. Then he bade her follow him into the living room.

"Rather a surprising performance, eh?"

Anna wriggled, desiring to escape.

"Oh, don't feel so uneasy; you are in your own house—furniture and all. I've bought it—and here's the deed in your own name. Janette started for California last night. She went as soon as she paid for that piece of woodland her husband bought just before he died. She took me around the boundaries yesterday—while somebody swiped the truck on me. It's a valuable piece of timber; and the whole thing is yours, honey."

"And how was it paid for?"

Sam drew himself up proudly. "I got $2,500 for Dan—our registered boar I took to the fair; that, with what we had saved, paid for the place. Now, let's take the crate over to father's and then go home and prepare to move. You can pack the things right up."

Not for a long time did Sam know who swiped the truck, or that Anna took a ride in the pig crate. But she thought it wasn't so bad, after all, to have commandeered the conveyance of a $2,500 barbered and manicured pig—when his price had been handed over to her in the shape of a beautiful home.

Landis Reserves Room for Next Convention

Maj. Reed Landis, chairman of the American Legion national committee on aeronautics, was the first to reserve rooms in the New Nicollet hotel in Minneapolis, to be occupied during the American Legion convention in St. Paul September 15 to 19. The New Nicollet has not yet been opened and is under construction by a firm of Illinois engineers and contractors, some of whom are Legion men.

Major Landis announced that he was seeking rooms for the convention and the architect promised the room reservations made for the Landis party on the blue prints would be validated as soon as the hotel was thrown open to the public.

Many Legionnaires who will visit the convention will stay in Minneapolis hotels in order that St. Paul may accommodate the big throng of veterans expected to gather for the reunion.

Time Limit Soon Expires

American Legion officials are notifying members of the organization who seek to file claims for disability to get these into the veterans' bureau immediately. A time limit of five years has been set and this period will expire in most veterans' cases in a short time.

Corn Profits Increased by Heavier Fertilizing

Dean R. L. Watts, Pennsylvania State college, is authority for the statement that in fertilizer demonstrations conducted in Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, last summer, 350 pounds of a 4-8-4 mixture plus 300 pounds of acid phosphate per acre produced more than twice as many ears of sweet corn than when no fertilizer was used. The demonstrations revealed distinct advantages for heavy applications of high-grade mixtures.

BUILT-IN TANKS BIG GARAGE AID

Among Other Advantages,
Provide Means of Lessening Fire Risk.

Nearly every owner of a car has looked with envious eyes at various kinds of gasoline storage tanks and wished he had the advantages they provide in the way of lessening fire risk, making possible the purchase of gasoline in quantity at lower cost, and furnishing a convenient method of filling the car while in the garage.

Very little new can be told about these tanks or the method of installing them, but it is possible to provide one for less expense than would be imagined. Any car owner can put in a tank at a cost of only a few dollars for material if he will give his own time in making the installation.

Inexpensive Materials.
The materials required are a 55-gallon oil tank, obtainable at a cost of about $2; about five feet of 2-inch wrought iron pipe; approximately eight feet of three-quarters-inch iron pipe; one three-quarters-inch pipe nipple; one 2-inch pipe cap; one three-quarters-inch globe valve; two three-quarters-inch pipe elbows; four feet of flexible metal tubing, or fabric tubing, 1 inch inside diameter; and one air valve, such as is used with an inner tube.

A threading die for the three-quarters-inch pipe to cut the standard 14 threads an inch and a die to cut the 2-inch pipe with 11 1/2 standard threads are used in making the connections.

After fitting the pipe as shown and cementing the threads with pipe dope or shellac, install the tank three feet under ground at the left side of the entrance of the garage, if your car has a rear tank. For a car with a cowl tank, a location about six feet from the opposite end of the garage is more desirable.

Operated by Air.
The operation of the tank is by means of air, and merely involves the connecting of the air pump with the valve and the opening of the outlet valve. A fixed type of pump, with short barrel and lever, can be used to advantage not only as a gasoline pump, but also as a serviceable tire pump. Even if a new pump is purchased, the cost for materials should not be more than $10.

This device makes it a simple matter to pump gasoline into the auto tank while cleaning or tuning up the car.—G. A. Luers in the Popular Science Monthly.

"Tips to Save Gas"
Well-inflated tires.
Proper carburetor adjustment.
Brakes in correct working order.
Lubricate all working parts to assure smooth running.
Disengage the clutch whenever possible, and coast.
Obtain sufficient momentum when approaching a heavy grade to carry the car a considerable distance up the grade before making it necessary to change gears.

APPLYING PRINCIPLE OF AERIAL LIFE NET TO PUBLIC HIGHWAYS

A "highway guard," a successfully tested safety device, applies the principle of the aerial life net to prevent highway embankment, curve and bridge accidents. W. T. Kyle of Bridgeport, Conn., sponsored the appliance. The secret of the guard lies in its strength and method of fabricating the material so as to obtain elasticity. Tests have shown that it is practically impossible for the average-sized machine speeding as high as forty miles an hour to break through and if the car hits the wire at a moderate speed the recoil is sufficient to bring it back to the road without serious damage.

Record of Car Expenses Saves in Several Ways

The motorist who doesn't keep any record of his car expenses stands to lose in a variety of ways, but now he's out of luck anew. These gas taxes which he has been paying in many states may be deducted from his income. The same with state license fees. These are state taxes, and are accordingly deductible. Where the car is used for business the cost of ordinary upkeep charges and fuel is deductible, since it is an expense of running the business. Where the car is used for both business and pleasure the cost should, of course, be apportioned. But all this is like the Greek language to the car owner who simply pays out and never keeps a record of expenses. To those who keep records in a half-hearted way, or who think it might be advisable to try, this should be sufficient incentive to get out the little red memo book. It isn't anything at all when you do it in installments.

Gaskets Very Necessary to Prevent Gas Leakage

In order to secure a liquid or gas-tight joint, even between flat, accurately machined or ground surfaces that are fastened together, a packing of compressible material must be used between them which, when the surfaces are drawn together by the bolts or other means of fastening, will distort to conform to the slight irregularities that may exist, and thus secure a leakless contact, says the Automobile Digest. If the gasket material does not yield to the irregularities of the surfaces in contact with it, it cannot seal the joint. Owing to the necessity of using compressible material, it usually becomes necessary to replace them when removed. Their replacement is thus frequently required and evasive trouble is often caused by new gaskets which blow out due to defective installation.

Machine Demonstrates the Working of a Tire

An automobile tire company displays in its salesrooms in New York one of the most perfect machines yet devised for demonstrating the working of a tire under road conditions. Mounted on a heavy stand, a big iron drum is driven by an electric motor. An axle and wheel are mounted over the drum, with the tire in contact with it and bearing its weight. The tire is under the same pressure as if on a loaded touring car. The test, a most severe one, consists in driving nails, spikes, etc., into the tire and tube and then running with them in at a rate of about twenty-five miles an hour. The machine is operated by electric power and is also equipped with a speedometer, which gives a correct speed of wheels, as if in real road use.

Notched Rotor Is Used in Battery Ignition

In battery ignition systems there is usually employed a notched rotor against which presses the latch or tripper, with short springs attached. When this latch becomes worn the entire system will fail to operate properly, and it is a wise precaution to carry a spare latch in the tool box. It is not difficult to remove and replace this latch, which fits in but one way, so that there is no danger of placing it wrong.

Automobile Notes

Improperly adjusted valve rocker arms mean a loss of power.
Never leave the gears in mesh when you stop your tractor.
When turning a corner it is a wise precaution to make a practice of throwing out the clutch.
Proper inspection of the steering gear is as necessary and as important as the care of the engine.
Front wheels should have about one-quarter inch foregather, that is, they should toe in slightly.

ADDITIONAL HONORS FOR BLIND VETERAN

Frank Schoble, blinded World war veteran, and one of the nation's best examples of how a disabled man may become rehabilitated, has won additional honors. Schoble's home is at Wynecote, Pa., but he has been attending the University of Pennsylvania since 1921. There he won a membership in Phi Beta Kappa, the highest scholastic honor that a student may receive.

Schoble was blinded five days before the armistice as he led his men near Nantillois in the Argonne sector. Returning, he resolved to re-enter the school that he had left thirteen years before to enter business life, only to face many handicaps.

His first obstacle was credit for his previous work. Scholastic requirements had so increased that though he was in his junior year when he had left the school, he was given credit but for work covering a year and a half.

Then another handicap presented itself. He had not yet learned to read and write by the Braille system, and was forced to have this knowledge to continue his studies. He was not daunted, however, and his applications have just won him the most coveted honor of the institution.

Schoble is an active member of the American Legion, and has spoken before many Pennsylvania posts of the Legion. Without any bitterness against the fate which shut him off from sight, he said to his comrades:

"I see line upon line of khaki-clad men, my comrades in the war, going forward in that drive that forced the enemy from his position, and that within a few short weeks had expelled him from the Argonne.

"That sight to my mind represents the spirit of the American soldiers, and of the Legion itself. You are going forward to your objective.

"I feel I have an advantage over all you men, with that final picture in my mind. You men here are to me not an assemblage of civilians, but of soldiers, in spirit wearing that uniform and going forward. You are going to carry on until the whole nation of 10,000,000 is in line.

"No real American is going to take pride in what others do for him; he is not going to be proud of what he has done in the past. He is going to take up the responsibilities of doing more and better things himself."

42 Days to Cross Sea

Seventy-five years ago the Hamburg-American line established its first ship, the Deutschland, in the service between Hamburg and New York. This was a sailing vessel of 771 tons, and was regarded as a monster craft in those days. Adolph Geoffrey, director of the company, at a meeting of the directors in 1848, told with great pride of the high character of the accommodations which its three ships were affording transatlantic travelers, who passed 42 days on the trip from Hamburg to New York and 30 days on the eastward trip.—Detroit News.

SOY BEANS

Pickaway County Farmers Are Becoming Interested in This Crop.

Because of the shortage of help for last fall's corn harvest and the consequent small acreage put out in wheat, many farmers of Pickaway county will this spring sow some of their land to soy beans and some to oats. At the different Farmers' institutes and Farm Bureau meetings the growing of soy beans has been widely discussed this year and farmers all over the county are making inquiry as to methods of seeding soy beans. A large amount of seed was certified last year by the Ohio Seed Growers' association and lists of growers can be obtained at the Farm Bureau office.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

O. K.'S MEASURES FOR DISABLED VETERANS

Recommendations of the senate committee investigating affairs of the veterans' bureau reflect practically every recommendation of the fifth annual convention of the American Legion in regard to care of disabled veterans. This is shown by the announcements of the committee, which indicate that on the major points sought by the Legion rehabilitation committee legislative recommendations will be offered to congress for action.

First of the recommendations to coincide with the Legion's views is further decentralization of bureau affairs seen in the plan suggested for establishment of rating boards in every district and subdistrict for the purpose of hearing claimants in person. This has long been a Legion contention.

Another of the Legion's recommendations suggested in the committee report is that disability of service origin, short of permanent disability, be no bar to reinstatement of war risk insurance.

Legion suggestions further included in the report are increase of pay for disabled veterans with children, to widows of veterans with children, and double compensation for women who lost a son and a husband or two sons in service; allowance for housekeepers for totally helpless veterans; retroactive reduction in compensation be forbidden except in case of fraud; increase in burial expenses for indigent veterans; opening of hospitals to veterans of all American campaigns; suspension of compensation payments to guardians of insane veterans who fail to render proper accounting of funds; and that disputed claims on war risk insurance may be taken to the courts for judgment.

Among the most important of the suggestions made which are in line with the Legion policy or rehabilitation, is that if tuberculosis or mental diseases developed within three years after discharge, these shall be presumed to be of service origin, which opens the way to compensation for thousands of veterans; and the Legion further suggests that the hospitals be thrown open to all veterans suffering from mental disease or tuberculosis without demanding proof that such disease was of service origin.

Directions of the Legion's fight for care of the disabled veteran is in charge of the national rehabilitation committee, which maintains a large force in the national capital, with an active service bureau in touch with the central bureau office and liaison officials and committees in every district and subdistrict.

Much Discussion Over National Prize Essay

The essay of Lambert Slominski of Greenbush, Minn., submitted as state winner in the national essay contest of the American Legion, caused a controversy to arise between H. J. Steel, chairman of the department Americanism commission of the American Legion and several critics of the lad's composition.

Slominski, a schoolboy of sixteen, wrote on the Legion's announced subject, "Why America Should Prohibit Immigration for Five Years." His essay was adjudged best in his state and as a consequence was given wide publicity. One of the points made by the boy was that ability of Slavic and Mediterranean subraces to maintain free institutions and democratic government is questionable.

This called forth much criticism, particularly from representatives of those races. One letter from Rev. V. F. Mikolasek of Lankin, N. D., declared that the Czechoslovak race, of which he is a member, maintained free institutions long before America was discovered. This is, of course, very true, according to history.

But Chairman Steel cited the fact that these people have for several generations been under the dominations of despotic monarchs and peoples. They have not been able to continue their institutions of learning, their forms of free government. Steel maintained that the boy's points were well taken in this respect, as admission of such people was not a reflection on the race itself, but on the lords and masters of the citizenry.

In an open letter to Reverend Mikolasek, Steel said: "Anyone who pauses to reflect a moment will agree that the Slav of today or of any period, is and was different in many respects from the New Englanders of Colonial times. But the Slav is not therefore inferior. Moreover it is not yet determined that America will be molded along the lines set forth by our Puritan ancestors. That is one of the things the Legion hopes to have considered and if possible settled in the present discussion."

The fact that such an essay brought forth discussion was the point aimed at in the nation-wide contest in which nearly 300,000 children competed.

"The Store That Treats You Right"

The Moving Picture Rights of Your Boy Wearing Out a Jack O'Leather Suit in a Hurry---is not Worth 10c!

What kind of a store would this be to feature the best men's clothing in America and then pass out to our future citizens suits that would react against us?

Boys' clothes must wear well on our little customers before they wear well on our order sheets.

From our experience, Jack O'Leather Boys' Suits have not peer in America---they are made better---styled better---finished better and wear longer than any boys' suits we have ever seen or had offered us.

Compare, Parents---we're willing to match our time against yours before we speak of matching dollars.

Jack O'Leather Boys' Suits
with Two Pair of Trousers

CONFIDENCE

The most beautiful of all human relationships are based on CONFIDENCE. Love is based on confidence, friendship is based on confidence, happy marriages are based on confidence; and so, confidence is the highest aim a business institution can achieve, because it introduces into the processes of buying and selling, something of the unselfish quality of those sacred human relationships that are untouched and uncontaminated by money. This store never wants to be guilty of such bad taste as to claim perfection, but it makes no secret of its ambition to foster and deserve at all times the confidence of its customers.

There is no higher success than
